

The Honorable Bob Goodlatte
Chairman, Judiciary Committee
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Chairman Goodlatte:

We are writing to urge you to ensure fairness in today's retail marketplace and finally resolve the serious inequity impacting local economies, community retailers, and the jobs they support. As small-business owners, we appreciate your leadership on this issue via your Basic Principles on Remote Sales Tax, released in September 2013. We believe now is the time to move forward with legislation that will level the playing field for all retailers.

As business owners who are active in the community, we are dedicated to closing the online sales tax loophole that hurts community-based businesses, and we are calling on Congress to finally settle this issue and stand up for a free marketplace in which all businesses are given a honest chance to compete.

It has been more than 20 years since the Supreme Court ruled to exempt catalog sellers from collecting remote sales taxes, leaving it to Congress to revisit and resolve the issue should the need arise. At that time, no one could have foreseen the rise of e-commerce and the impact it would have on the retail marketplace, nor the technological advances that have made remote sales tax collection quick and easy. However, times have changed—as has our technology and consumer habits.

As small-business owners, we embrace competition and the challenge of attracting customers in the digital age, but we ask that Congress end the tax advantage currently afforded our online competitors. Let us compete on true price, service, and selection without government's thumb on the scale. It's time to update our sales tax laws to reflect the economic and technological realities of the 21st Century.

Passed with broad bipartisan support in the Senate in early 2013, the Marketplace Fairness Act marked a significant step toward ensuring all businesses—online or offline, large or small—played by the same set of rules. While we understand your desire to pursue alternative ideas, we hope that the House of Representatives and your committee will move quickly and judiciously in 2014 to level the retail playing field. True free market competition will not only support America's local businesses, but will strengthen our economy and provide lower taxes for everyone.

Again, we appreciate your efforts to build consensus and consider ways in which to modernize and update state tax codes to reflect new technologies and a dynamically changing economy. We look forward to legislative action and we will be constantly monitoring your efforts and those of your colleagues on this critically important issue. Please let us know if we can be of any assistance.

Respectfully,
